

Agent Search Resources

Books

Jeff Herman's Guide to Publishers, Editors and Literary Agents 2009 by Jeff Herman

2009 Guide to Literary Agents by Chuck Sambuchino

2009 Children's Writers and Illustrators Market by Alice Pope

Remember to search the acknowledgements page or any book you like that has similarities to yours to find out who agented!

Websites

agentquery.com – a searchable database of agents

guidetoliteraryagents.com/blog/ – by the editor of Guide to Literary Agents, more agent interviews and articles to aid you in your search querytracker.net – an online submission tracker, plus list of agents as well as lists of agents' clients publishersmarketplace.com – a for fee website ($20/month) where agents and publishers list their deals. Also offers a search feature.

verlakay.com/boards/index – discussion board for children's book writers...go to the agent response time threads to see the typical amounts of time each agent takes to reply. Boards also have a search feature.

absolutewrite.com/forums/ – this discussion board for all types of writers has an ask the agent thread where you can speak to different guest agents anotherrealm.com/preditors/pubagent.htm – a site that tracks which agencies are legitimate and which are scams.

writingforchildrenandteens.com/2007/06/02/239/how-to-interview-an-agent/ -- tips for what to ask if an agent asks to represent you Don't forget to go to agency websites!

Agent Blogs

Nathan Bransford (Curtis Brown): <http://nathanbransford.blogspot.com/>

Dystel & Goderich: <http://dglm.blogspot.com/>

Kristin Nelson: <http://pubrants.blogspot.com/>

Janet Reid (of FinePrint): <http://jetreidliterary.blogspot.com/>

The Rejecter: <http://rejecter.blogspot.com/>

Kate Schafer: <http://ktliterary.com/archives.html>